The three-masted topsail schooner is a traditional sailing vessel of 49 m in length overall. Built in 1907 in Moorrege, Germany, the Swaensborgh is still as elegant as ever. Prior to her ownership under Dutch flag, she sailed with cargo well into the 1980's, and has always arrived safely into ports all around Europe.

In 2001 the present owners purchased the vessel, brought her to her new homeport of Kampen, the Netherlands, and made her into the vessel she is today.
